DESCRIPTION

Pair of stools designed by Christian Durupt for the Les Arcs ski resort in the 1960s.

Crafted in solid wood, likely pine, these stools embody the functional simplicity and raw aesthetic characteristic of the mountain interiors conceived by Charlotte Perriand, with whom Durupt collaborated closely.

The slightly overhanging square seat, with two subtly curved edges, rests on a sturdy structure with four straight or slightly splayed legs.

Provenance: Les Arcs, circa 1960
