

Shooting grouse over dogs

CHARLES EDWARD JOHNSON R.I., R.O.I

Sold

REF: 374819

Height: 35.7 cm (14.1")

Width: 61.2 cm (24.1")

Framed Height: 47.2 cm (18.6")

Framed Width: 72.5 cm (28.5")

Description

CHARLES EDWARD JOHNSON R.I., R.O.I 1832-1913 English School Shooting grouse over dogs Oil on canvas, signed and dated 1890 35.7 x 61.2 cms 14 x 24 ins Overall framed size 47.2 x 72.5 cms

189/16 x 28½ ins C E Johnson was primarily a landscape painter in oils and watercolours, particularly of Scotland and the Welsh borders, but he was also a skillful animal painter, including them in his rural scenes and he also depicted sporting subjects as well as being an occasional etcher. He was born in Stockport on 9th March 1832 and attended Stockport Grammar School before undertaking his artistic training at the Royal Academy school in London. He was still living there in 1855 but by 1858 he was in Edinburgh where he started his career. However, his stay in Scotland was comparatively brief for he returned to London in 1864 where he continued to reside until 1897. Johnson exhibited his first painting at the Royal Academy in London in 1855 with a work bearing the title Stepping Stones and, in the same year, at the Royal Society of British Artists, On the Lledder, North Wales. He went on to show fifty-four paintings at the R.A., seventy-eight at the Royal Institute of Painters in Watercolours, seventy-four at the Royal Institute of Oil Painters, seventeen at the Manchester City Art Gallery, twenty-two at the Glasgow Institute of the Fine Arts, twenty-seven at the Royal Society of Artists, Birmingham as well as other venues. Landscapes and rural life comprised a large part of these works with titles such as Glencoe, Ben Nevis in winter; The Wye and the Severn; Harvest time; The horse Dealer; Sheep dipping; On the Thames near Oxford and A peaceful river which was painted in 1895 and is now in the Victoria and Albert Museum collection. However, these are interspersed with a few marines such as The American Brig Atalante in coastal waters; A Hastings trawler going out and The last of the Spanish Armada, a scene on the west coast of Scotland in 1587. Most of the sporting scenes depicted by Johnson were set in Scotland with The grouse shoot; Bringing home the stags; Deer stalking and The home of the red deer being some typical titles. The quality of his exhibits earned him election as a member of the Royal Institute of Painters in Watercolours in 1882 and of the Royal Institute of Oil Painters in 1883. He also won a Bronze Medal in Paris in 1899. Tate Britain has in its collection The Swineherd; Gurth, son of Beowulph, painted in 1879, which had originally been purchased by the Chantrey Bequest. Other museums and institutions which hold paintings by him in their collections include: Wolverhampton Art Gallery; Sheffield Museum; Perth Art Gallery, Stirling Smith Art Gallery and Museum; Stockport Heritage Services; Derby Museum and Art Gallery; The Touchstone in Rochdale and Williamson Art Gallery and Museum. The British Museum has a watercolour by Frank Holl (1845-1888) called The sketch club, painted in 1883, which have the portraits of Philip Morris (Associate RA) and the artists John Burr, ...